Dear HR,

My name is Mandy Sun, with more than 4 years professional architectural designer experience, I'm now pivoting into a new career and I would like to apply for the Junior Front End Developer role in your company.

As a self-taught front end developer, I've finished the Web Developer Bootcamp on Udemy and created a few web applications, with decent understanding of HTML, CSS, JavaScript and Bootstrap, I can fit into the team fast. Talking about soft skills, I'm a highly adaptable, result-driven problem solver and a creative, dedicated software developer who is passionate about creating programs that make people's lives easier. My previous working experience shapes me into an effective communicator and multitasker. I'm also a fast learner and always interested in being involved with meaningful projects, no matter it's an architectural project or software project, a professional interior designer working experience helps improved my aesthetic level, and I'm now looking forward to building beautiful software and finding a combination of art and technology.

Thank you very much for your time reviewing my application, I would appreciate an opportunity to meet with you to have a further discussion. Looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
Mandy SUN
